Terms to Understand

bonds, investment grade: Bonds represent an obligation to repay a debt, along with interest. Investment grade bonds are considered to have a lower risk of becoming unable to make promised payments to investors, including the initial debt.

derivatives: Financial instruments whose value is linked to one or more rates, indexes, share prices or other values.

efficient portfolio management: A strategy aimed at reducing risk, lowering costs or generating additional capital or income for the Fund through the use of derivatives. These strategies must align with the Funds risk profile.

convertible securities, contingent convertible bonds: Bonds that convert into shares of a company upon a pre-determined event occurring. Contingent convertible bonds generally pay higher interest payments compared to other bonds due to the higher risk.

asset- and mortgage- backed securities: Bonds backed by consumer debt (such as mortgages, credit card and other loan-type debt) and whose income derives from the payments received from the underlying borrowers.

Share Class Currency: EUR

Treatment of Income: For accumulation shares, income from investments is reinvested in the Fund and reflected in the price of shares.

Risk and Reward Profile

What does this indicator mean and what are its limits?

This indicator is designed to provide you with a measure of the price movement of this share class based on historical behavior.

Historical data may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund. The category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time.

The lowest category does not mean risk free.

As the share class has no sufficient historical data available, simulated data based on a representative portfolio model or benchmark have been used instead.

Why is the Fund in this specific category?

The Fund invests primarily in short-term investment grade debt securities denominated in Euros while aiming to maintain capital preservation and liquidity. Such securities have historically proven to present some stability over time and have benefitted from limited exposure to interest rates and movements in the bond market. Such securities have historically proven to be highly stable and conservative in nature.

Risks materially relevant not adequately captured by the indicator:

Counterparty risk: the risk of failure of financial institutions or agents (when serving as a counterparty to financial contracts) to perform their obligations, whether due to insolvency, bankruptcy or other causes.

Credit risk: the risk of loss arising from default that may occur if an issuer fails to make principal or interest payments when due. This risk is higher if the Fund holds low-rated, sub-investment-grade securities.

Derivative Instruments risk: the risk of loss in an instrument where a small change in the value of the underlying investment may have a larger impact on the value of such instrument. Derivatives may involve additional liquidity, credit and counterparty risks.

Secondary market trading risk: the risk that the shares purchased on the secondary market cannot usually be sold directly back to the Fund and that investors may therefore pay more than the NAV per share when buying shares or may receive less than the current NAV per Share when selling shares.

For a full discussion of all the risks applicable to this Fund, please refer to the “Risk Considerations” section of the current prospectus of Franklin Templeton ICAV.
